THOUGHTS

Grid of thought cards:

- Google what that is in Paris. Don't know where to focus on.
- Tried to eat as little as possible all day so that I can eat as much as possible.
- Placing a bet with my friends.
- Getting hungry, showing mutual compassion.
- Chating with friends.
- The look of the restaurant is not great but okay.
- I don't have a nice connection with the staff.
- A lot of drinks makes it difficult to choose but they're good.
- The food is so fresh.
- Ordering too much or beginning wanting to try something.
- Imporing recipes.
- If you don't like the food you just take you did finish it.
- I wanted to try more but I was too full.
- There is a nice thematic atmosphere.
- I like to have personal contact with the staff.
- I like to see the food before I am eating it so I know what to expect.
- I like it when the table is full of different food.
- I like that you can try new things because the dishes are small.
- I eat with food but not necessarily free and nice.
- At the last round I was full but finished after it was too much.
- Impersonal staff.
- Staff to make choices.
- Presentation of dishes should be better.
- I like to have a table full of food for the experience of eating and sharing together.
- I like that you have a stack of plates representing how much you ate.
- The staff because you don't want to feel sick but you still want to continue.
- Had too much food.
- Enjoyed the time spent with people.
- Stomach ache.
- Sleep bad this night about.
- I like to compare how much food I ate.
- Feeling a bit disgusted because I ate so much.
- Satisfied however not as focused on healthy as they later.

DESIGN GOAL

To reduce the urge of overeating of young adults (20-30) while eating at an all you can eat

Then the moment arrives when you have to stop, yeah you shouldn't eat until you feel sick, but you want to continue...'

INTERACTION VISION

The interactions in my concept should be like....

Making a photobook with a friend.

SATISFYING

The collection of pictures, the overview, form, size and color of the collection.

AWARENESS

The content of the pictures, colors, people on the pictures, composition of the pictures, dates on the pictures.

GUIDANCE

Form, texture and size of the pictures and structure of the book, structure of the glue.

CONFRONTING

The amount of pictures, the size of the book, the images, colors and content of the pictures.

FINAL DESIGN

TABLE MEMORIES

Table Memories aims to reduce the urge of overeating by bringing back visual cues of food consumed. Not only focusing on the amounts, but moreover on what food is eaten. Shifting the focus from quantity to quality.

TABLE MEMORIES

TIMELINES NORMAL AYCE EXPERIENCE.

TIMELINES EVALUATION SESSION.

----- with Table Memories
----- without Table Memories

Overview | Awareness, guidance, confrontation, satisfaction

*'as a human you are mostly more focused on the negative, but because of the overview you see how it really is and that's positive'
'At the end meal it made it easy because we could point to the three nice things we still wanted'*

Top-Bottom | Ranking

'It's fun! Because you get nicely critical. It's nice to be busy with the food and what you think of it.'

Chalkboard | Personalize

*'It didn't work, you have no space and you put aside the board when you try to write'
'we made notes ourselves with the tokens, it's fun. It gives you freedom. It's fun to write something with everything, that you can release some of your thoughts.'*

Nudging Background | Guidance & discussion

'Yeah but it was just like less and less. It's hard to tell if we got influenced by that.'

Start-End | Create a Storyline

'I think it is very natural to do it like this, you shouldn't do it differently. You have really clear start and end and that clearly indicates time.'

Token | Representing a dish

*'I think they look nice and are understandable, mostly you could immediately see it from the image.'
'They could be slightly bigger to make it easier to read'*

Question | Discussion starter

'The ranking together with the question 'what's your favorite dish' makes it clear what to do. However it's a bit unnatural that the question is at the bottom since it's the 'best' token. Bit confusing. Better at the top.'

Stand | Spark interaction

'Yeah you see it there always, so at the end of the eating you get remembered of it. If it was somewhere aside you could easily forget it. Now it feels active.'

You are more like... what do I think of it, what do I like about it. Also because you write a comment about that.

MAIN INSIGHTS

- Overall prototype was clear and understandable
- Clear shift in focus from quantity to quality
- Nudging background does not work (consciously)
- Commenting could be added as a feature

- Did address awareness, guidance and satisfaction
- Did not address confrontation.

- The urge of overeating was reduced.

CONCLUSI ON

DESIGN GOAL:

To reduce the urge of overeating of young adults (20-30) while eating at an all you can eat restaurant.

INTERACTION

VISION:

AWARENESS

''Yes more, because you are more busy with it. About the quantity but more about if the food itself was nice. It's now just more about the quality than the quantity.'

CONFRONTATION

''No it was not really confronting, I think I did expect worse'

GUIDANCE

*'Yes for sure. Especially at the end of the evening. But also you can see what you had earlier. You feel guided throughout the evening'

SATISFACTION

''Yeah when I look at it now I think it looks really nice, it looks like a satisfying evening.'
